Selectmen Listen To Grievance

Selectmen heard a grievance last week concerning an alleged violation of overtime assignments in the Police Department. The matter was taken under advisement.

Attorney Gerard McAuliffe, representing the police association, claimed that an article of the collective bargaining agreement regarding overtime has been violated. According to McAuliffe, a permanent intermittent officer had been filling a full time shift. He said this time should be considered overtime and offered first to regular officers.

Permanent Intermittent Police Officer Frederick Grassie has been working a regular shift for several months but is still receiving hourly pay. Selectmen have voted to appoint Grassie to a full-time permanent position to fill a vacancy in the department. Civil Service has not yet responded to the appointment so Grassie has not been officially installed as a permanent officer.

McAuliffe said that an intermittent officer is not included in the overtime section of the collective bargaining agreement, that an intermittent officer was only an occasional position, and just the fact that Grassie was working full-time was a grievable item. The other officers, he said, want compensation for the overtime which was not made available to them.

Selectman Arthur Clark responded, "If it weren't for the stupid Civil Service that guy would be a permanent. We have a right to work this man."

McAuliffe agreed that they had a right to work Grassie, but only if the regular officers didn't want overtime assignments. He added, "I see nothing wrong with regular personnel working double shifts."

Clark continued, "We have two vacancies in the department which we haven't been able to fill because of Civil service troubles. I can't see what we're doing wrong."

Clark said that he was unable to resolve the grievance and that there was no money in the budget to pay overtime compensation. He said he would consult with town counsel and provide McAuliffe with an answer in two weeks.
